Weather System Updated; Calibrated

On Wednesday, May 16 the Flandreau Mesonet weather station received upgrades and annual calibrations. The station monitors provide climate and water resource monitoring for the Flandreau Santee Sioux Tribe. The station work was done by the Natural Resources Office's Brownfield Coordinator Elizabeth Wakeman and South Dakota State University's Mesonet Director Nathan Edwards. The station reports temperature, humidity, wind, rain, pressure, sunshine, soil temperature and soil moisture. The upgrades installed include a sensor for improved temperature and humidity readings. The weather station was originally installed by Wakeman in 2007. She teamed up with the university to make the data available live on the web. It can be found at: mesonet.sdstate.edu/Flandreau

When Mama's Not Happy, Nobody's Happy

By Richard P. Holm MD

Nurture versus nature is a question often bandied about. Is it the environment in which the child is raised, or is it the genetics provided by the biological parents, that most influences what kind of person a child will grow to be?

We have known for a long time that if a parent is depressed, their children are at higher risk for having anxiety, depression, and disruptive behavior. Indeed, the offspring of depressed parents have up to a three-times higher risk of these problems when compared to the children of parents who are not depressed. So, is it because of the environment; or is it genetics?

Research published in the Journal of the American Medical Association brings us closer to an answer. It is important to note that the study consisted primarily of mothers with depression, as they are far more likely to report symptoms and come in for treatment than fathers with depression. However, researchers believe that their discovery applies to whichever parent has depression, regardless of whether they are male or female. The results were fascinating: effective treatment of the mother lead to resolution of psychiatric problems in the child.

Study author Myrna Weissman, professor of psychiatry and epidemiology at Columbia University, said "while depression may be a genetic disorder, [this study showed that] a parent's illness has a very strong environmental effect on her child." In other words, when mama's not happy, nobody's happy. Weissman also pointed out "if you have a depressed mother, you ought to do everything you can to get her better, because there's a double effect that will impact their children."

I think the message from this research is very powerful, and should be taken to heart by any mother or father. If you as a parent are having psychological trouble, get help and your child will be better for it. If you won't do it for yourself, do it for your kids.

We've enjoyed twenty-two years
Of you cooking for us here.
Wonderful aromas fill the kitchen
Leaving us hoping it's your fried chicken.

From lemon pies made for Larry
To caramel rolls we will carry
These memories in our hearts
As we have from the start.

The fresh bread we will miss
So you may hear us hiss.
But your family will cheer
And may have a beer.
Since now you'll be home
Or maybe you'll roam
To the Black Hills on a trip.
So don't give us any lip.

Love—Julie

Native drumbeat brings cultural awareness to elementary students

The drum has kept Native Americans alive, giving life to the people, a dancer and singer from Pine Ridge told students in kindergarten through fourth grade in Flandreau last week.

“This drum is very sacred to us,” said Kelly Looking Horse, who along with his wife, Suzie, brought a cultural awareness program to school through the Pipestone National Monument American Indian Education series.

Rather than just show the children, he let them touch and beat on the drum made of buffalo hide. He also spoke with them in Lakota, taught them to sing in traditional chant style and had them practice war whoops. Five students earned dream catcher necklaces for listening well and being able to answer questions.

Looking Horse, an Oglala and CEO of Lakota Red Nations which shares culture and history, attended Flandreau Indian School in the early 1970s and told the students about going to movies in town and eating ice cream. “I remember Flandreau very well,” he said.

Looking Horse, 62, also told the children, who eagerly volunteered for chances to drum and dance, about how he earned the eagle feathers on his porcupine roach headdress, the first feather through a vision quest when he was 14. His second one was earned by saying no to alcohol and drugs at some point in his life, and a third is for his brother who was killed. He talked about the meaning of his regalia representing people who danced thousands of years ago and of his bustle, which is 150 years old and has been passed down from others who danced.

As part of the program, children and staff joined in a round dance and in a snake dance to the beat of the students drumming.

“That’s like a heart beat in our body. It’s a heart,” he said about the drum. “All of the bad things that happen to us, if it wasn’t for the drum, we wouldn’t be here today.”
Gaming Ordinance revisions have been BIA approved

Changes are:

- 5yr waiting period is now 1yr
- 90 days off reservation is now 30 days
- Education exemption is more broad
- Treatment exemption is added
- Incarceration person has been added

Section 19-3-2. Qualification for Per Capita Payments.

In accordance with the policy set forth in Section 19-1-1 of this Title, to fairly satisfy the needs of tribal members who contribute to the advancement and self-determination of the Tribe by residing within the Reservation community, to provide incentives to members to return to the Reservation community to further the advancement of tribal self-determination, and to enhance the Reservation community socially, economically and culturally, the Tribe adopts the policy that limits monthly disbursements of per capita payments to qualified tribal members who have physically resided for a period of one (1) year within the Reservation community, as those terms are defined in Section 19-1-1.1 of this Title.

Section 19-3-6. Maintaining Residency.

Persons who have been granted a Confirmation of Residency shall maintain physical residency within the Reservation community. Failure to do so shall result in the loss of qualified tribal member status.

Qualified tribal members must notify the Executive Committee or its designee of any change of residency status, including the following:

1. Moving out of the Reservation community, whether temporary or permanent.

2. Leaving the Reservation community for an extended period of thirty (30) days or more.

Higher education exemption - In order to qualify for student exemption, the member must be enrolled as a full-time student as determined by the school's registrar. Vocational education or certificate programs are eligible for the higher education exemption if the student meets all other factors.

Students shall be required to submit adequate proof to the Per Capita Committee or its designee of their continuing eligibility to receive this exemption, and students must authorize the Per Capita Office to obtain any information needed from the school in order to verify the student’s full time student status. Failure to do so may result in loss of exempt status.

Enrollment in online, general education degree courses, correspondence courses, or other types of distance learning classes do not allow a member to qualify for the student exemption. Any student who is placed on funding suspension through the tribe's higher education program for failing to maintain the minimum credit hour requirements shall lose his or her exempt status. The student shall thereafter be required to renew his or her residency in accordance with this Title to be eligible for the per capita payment.

Because degree programs have different credit and time requirements, there will be no time limitation on this exemption, so long as the student is enrolled full-time. Upon completion or termination of the student's higher education program, the member shall resume physical residence within the Reservation community within ninety (90) days.

Failure to resume physical residence shall result in loss of exempt status and the member will no longer be deemed a qualified tribal member for per capita purposes.

If the student's higher education exemption expires or terminates and the student wishes to continue receiving the per capita benefits via the higher education exemption, he or she may apply to the Per Capita Committee for a continuation of their exemption. An extension may be granted at the discretion of the Per Capita Committee and is a non-appealable decision.

Students who have qualified for the higher education exemption in the spring semester, and who are enrolled in classes full time in the fall semester immediately following will be allowed to maintain their higher education exemption throughout the summer. Students must furnish proof to the Per Capita Committee that they are actually enrolled in the fall semester full time to be eligible. Students will still be required to apply for the higher education exemption for the upcoming academic year.

Student who have an internship, externship, or student-teaching requirement to obtain their degree will be allowed to continue to receive the higher education exemption during that internship, externship, or student-teaching and will not need to maintain a full-time course load.

In-patient Treatment Exemption - In order to qualify for an exemption for in-patient treatment, the member must have been physically residing within the Reservation community for a period of one continuous year prior to the granting of the exemption. Before leaving the Reservation Community, the member must notify the Per Capita Office in writing, include a letter regarding which treatment facility they are attending and how long treatment will last, and sign a HIPAA Release for any and all medical information provided to the Tribe. Within fourteen (14) calendar days of successful completion or other program termination, the member will be required to notify the Per Capita Committee that they are living within the Reservation community, and provide Confirmation of Residency and other paperwork as required.

Section 19-3-13. Incarcerated Persons.

Any qualified member who is incarcerated in a penal institution or otherwise pursuant to a conviction under any criminal law for more than thirty (30) days shall lose qualified status. However, such member shall regain qualified status ninety (90) days after his/her release and reapplication for qualified member status, provided he/she immediately satisfies the definition of physical residence within the Reservation Community. Upon release from incarceration, the member shall complete an application and provide documentation for Confirmation of Residency. Failure to provide such documentation, or to notify the Executive Committee or its designee of any change in sentencing which effects residency status within fourteen (14) days of release, will result in denial of confirmation of residency. Incarceration shall include living in a half-way house, court-ordered treatment, house arrest, or any other type of living situation in which the individual is not free to leave on their own will at any time.

- You must apply with per capita office to start your one (1) year. Date stamped by Member service clerk is start date of one (1) yr. NO back dating. It would be to your advantage to submit semi annual Confirmation of residency when qualified members do (May 1 & Nov 1)
